Town Meeting Quiet Affair —Same Officers Serve Again

Lack of Argument Characterizes Town Meeting—$37,708.38 Voted For Town Expenditures—Town Votes To Stay on Standard Time

By Gordon E. Lathrop

The annual meeting of the Town of Bethel entertained a packed house at Odeon Hall last Monday, with the Honorable Henry H. Hastings cracking the whip as Moderator. If the goodly attendance was due to the expectation of a sudden turnover in town politics a lot of persons were disappointed. Election of officers was pretty much a routine affair. Necessary appropriations for running the town another year followed closely the recommendations of the Budget Committee. $37,708.38 was voted to be raised at this meeting, $22,669 of this was for school purposes; $5,183.38 for roads; $3,500 for the support of the poor. Arguments were few, there being only two before the reports of last year were accepted and one on what time it's going to be in Bethel this coming summer.

Election of Officers

The coming year will find, without exception, the same gang ruling the roost. When you step into the town office Frank A. Brown, John H. Howe, and Carroll E. Abbott will still be there to pump your hand and serve you in their capacities as Selectmen, Assessors, and Overseers of the Poor. Mrs. Alice J. Brooks will issue dog licenses and marriage intentions in her capacity of Town Clerk, as of yore. John M. Harrington again handles the purse strings as Treasurer.

In only two cases was there even a hint of competition. Out of West Bethel came Clarence M. Bennett to challenge E. F. Brown's claim to the title of Road Commissioner. Dad's support made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers. But it's numbers that count in getting elected to town office. Bert Brown will continue to build roads and fill in the mud holes for another year at least at $3.50 per day. The other desired office was that of Member of the Superintending School Committee, with Tom Brown seeking to take the place of Robert D. Hastings as an educational supervisor. Mr. Hastings expressed himself as not being entirely adverse to losing the office with its lack of remuneration and its penchant as a target for criticism. His friends were many and apparently deaf to his wail, for Hastings is still a member of the School Board and Tom Brown is wondering how he got all those votes.

No Cut in Pay for Collector
Leslie E. Davis continues to be the fly in the ointment of the man who finds trouble in paying his taxes. Henry Bennett (another ambitious Bennett boy) offered to collect taxes at five mills on the dollar, but the town voters just couldn't seem to understand such generosity. Leslie held out for eight and one-half mills. Hugh Thurston suggested a compromise at seven mills. Henry Boyker took occasion (several occasions, in fact) to back Bennett in his offer to collect taxes at the lower figure. In the altercation Mr. Boyker took a slam at Mr. Thurston for not backing the more economical method of collecting. That got Hugh's dander up. He turned on Boyker with a curt statement that he did not believe in squeezing a man down to accepting less than the job was worth. Davis' friends ducked to his aid with some very flattering speeches. So, he will still

SUPERIOR COURT ADJOURNED FRIDAY UNTIL MARCH 28

The last case was that of John Faddoul of Rumford, who was tried on the charge of setting fire to a building which he owned on Canal Street, Rumford, with the intention of defrauding insurance companies. Alfred Mallet, who pleaded guilty to setting the fire and is serving sentence in the State prison, was brought to testify. He said that Faddoul offered him $50 and ten per cent of the insurance. The building was burned on the night of August 11, when Faddoul was away from town. Faddoul denied the story and a number of prominent Rumford business men testified to Faddoul's good reputation. The jury returned a verdict of guilty Thursday afternoon and Justice Emery sentenced Faddoul to serve not less than four years nor more than eight years in State prison.

On Friday Joseph McDonald of Roxbury was sentenced to serve not less than one year nor more than two years for breaking, entering and larceny of an axe and lantern from the summer home of Mrs. Ann Driscoll.

Marshall Rolfe of Albany, convicted of breaking and entering and larceny, was committed to the men's reformatory at South Windham.

David McClelland and Raymond Plante of Beverly, Mass., pleaded guilty to attempted assault on Deputy Sheriff Roderick. The boys were sentenced to six months in jail and the sentence was suspended and the boys put on probation.

Mrs. Marguerite Hannan, pleaded guilty to keeping and depositing liquor. She is 79 years old and has a court record. On account of her age and physical condition, a sentence of $200 and three months was suspended and she was placed on probation.

Arthur Patnaude of Rumford was sentenced to $200 fine and three months, on a charge of eluding sale.

Arthur Downa of Rumford, for illegal possession, was also given $200 and three months, with six months additional in default of fine.

The court adjourned Friday until March 28, when Justice Emery will return to attend to some matters for court hearing.

Laura Roberts is visiting her sister, Miss Annie Capen.

GOULD PLAYS FINAL GAME MONDAY

GORHAM, N. H., TEAM HAS WON SECOND PLACE IN WHITE
MOUNTAIN LEAGUE

Gould Academy's championship team will make its final appearance of the season Monday night when they play the strong Gorham High team. The Gorham team has made remarkable improvement and have now secured place in the White Mountain League of New Hampshire. Gould opened this year's schedule against the New Hampshire outfit and defeated them 23-14, but the "Blue and Gold" hoopers are expecting an altogether different brand of ball from the visitors when they play the return game at William Bingham Gymnasium next Monday.

The local team returned from the Lewiston Tournament a very happy group but also very tired and worn out. A rest this week with a little polishing up just before the game should put them in fair shape again. There will be two games. The second teams play at 7:30 and the varsity at 8:30.

Gould 29—Franklin 14.
Gould Academy easily defeated Franklin High, Bangor, Tourney Champs by completely smothering their attack. The winners stepped into a 7-4 lead at the end of the first period which they increased to 15-6 at the half. The defense of the Blue and Gold functioned so well that Franklin managed to cage only one field goal in each of the first two periods.

The last two periods were much a duplication of the first two with Gould gradually pulling away to finish 29-14. Browne led the attack with 11 points, ably assisted by his team mates. Lane played his best game of the year, causing the critics to watch him as all tournament guard material; which honor he duly won.

Bunker, left forward, led the scoring for Franklin with two field goals and two free throws for six points. Bradbury, 6 ft. 1 in. center, scored four points but Allen's fine play outshone his best efforts to such extent that Allen gained favorable comment by Lewiston sports writers.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION TO HOLD HEARING ON TRAIN SERVICE AT SOUTH PARIS

The Public Utilities Commission has called a public hearing at So. Paris, March 17, on a petition by the Canadian National Railway Co. to discontinue operation of trains No. 14 and 15 over its line between Portland and Island Pond, Vt.

AN APOLOGY

Due to a mental relapse on the part of the author of the Ladies' Aid show written on our last issue the singing of Mrs. Lee Wentzell, accompanied by Mrs. Erma Young, and the piano solos of Robert Lord were not mentioned. A Bethel entertainment is hardly complete without a song or two by Mona, who needs no commendation to the many who delight in the richness of her melodies. Robert Lord is a pianist par excellence who can make the ivories talk to the satisfaction of even the most unmusical critic.

Merton Parsons spent the week end with Mrs. Eva Merrill.

TOWN MEETING QUIET AFFAIR

One vote was cast for Herbert Bean as Auditor. The other necessary officers were left to the Selectmen to appoint.

Exceptions to Town Reports

There were several exceptions taken to the report of the Overseers of the Poor. F. E. Russell wanted information about the Joel Merrill account. Besides the $1,011 noted in the poor account it costs the town $6.50 a week to transport the Merrill children to school, according to "Pop." Frank Brown informed those interested that it was the intention of the Overseers to move the family to the Ferry House where both rent and transportation would be saved, but that sickness in the family had not made the move feasible last summer.

Mr. Boyker expressed himself as dissatisfied with the Merrill account and the account of Roland Corson who, he claimed, had gained residence in Peru. Mr. Brown calmed him down by reminding him that it was Boyker and not Brown that had moved the Merrills to their present location and that the Overseer's method of handling the Corson account was better than having a lawsuit such as Mr. Brown found on his hands upon re-entering the office two years ago. As a final shot Mr. Brown recited a bit of poetry: and who can argue with a grown man who recites poems?

The salary of Harry Sawin as janitor of the village schools came up out of the school report for criticism. The report figure of $1,020 was deemed exorbitant by Lon Chapman, in this day of depression. It took the combined skill of Messrs. Bowdoin, R. D. Hastings, and Leslie Davis to explain that the janitor had already been cut to $20 a week and was well worth his stipend. F. E. Russell also got an opportunity to put in a good word for Mr. Sawin before the report was accepted.

Money-Raising Articles

Beginning actual money raising with Article 15 in the Warrant, with regard to financing temporary 1932 loans the town voted that $2,000 of these be taken care of in 1933 and the remaining $2,000 in 1935. Under five school articles the sum of $22,900 was raised as recommended by the budget committee. Common schools receive $11,500; secondary schools $10,000 (a reduction of $1,000 on the recommendation of the School Committee by cooperation of Gould Academy); school supplies $500; repairs $200; text books $500; the school physician $100. An article to authorize the employment of a County Health Nurse was passed over. Permission was given the School Committee to sell buildings at North Bethel and near the Milton town line.

Five road articles drew a total of $5,183.28. Roads and bridges received $2,500. Because of the mildness of the past three winters the Selectmen and Road Commissioner thought $1,000 would get them by next season with luck. To draw a proportionate share of State road money the town voted to raise $49.50 for State road patrol; $1,068.28 for 3d class road maintenance; and $666 for building State aid highway. During explanation of the different road articles, Frank Brown let slip the fact that road laborers can expect a cut of about a dollar a day in 1933.

It was found necessary, under present conditions, to raise $3,500 to take care of the poor for another year. $3,000 was raised for town officers' bills. $50 is to be expended by the Col. C. S. Edwards Camp, Sons of Veterans to celebrate Memorial Day in Bethel. This raised the Budget Committee's figure from $37,552. Treasurer's and Collector's bonds at $50 and $25 respectively were voted.

Prof. Hanscom Speaks for Library

Professor F. E. Hanscom furnished the only piece of real oratory of the meeting. In an address replete with facts he decried the Budget Committee's bid of $200 for free use of the Public Library. Describing the library as having the best collection of books of the smaller libraries in Maine, Mr. Hanscom explained how the cost of management had increased by the employment of two librarians and the opening of the buildings for three afternoons a week. An average of 150 books are taken out in the afternoon; 350 titles get reading material from the library; a total of 15,000 books loaned in a year. These were the highlights of his appeal. "Prof." gained his point for the town raised the usual $400 for the library.

By the will of the town the road off Chandler Hill from Kirk's to the G. K. Hastings place in East Bethel will be discontinued, saving at least $200 in repairs the coming Spring. The town voted a necessary $1,600 to pay interest charges on temporary loans and authorized the treasurer to negotiate them for the next year.

The Selectmen's Jury List was read and accepted. The Moderator was given the task of picking a committee of 12 to supervise the Budget for next town meeting.

Daylight Saving

Article 43 in the Warrant, which gave Bethelites a chance to express their opinion of Daylight Saving, was productive of more argument than the big appropriation articles. Fred Merrill started it off by motioning to pass the article. O. B. Farwell had come all the way from East Bethel to see the fun and objected to having the show cut short. Gene Van made a motion to save daylight. He was backed by Fred Merrill who spoke as though he were sure anything else would make a "hick" town of Bethel. Fred and Bert Rowe clashed on "God's time" and the time on the family alarm clock. Wallace Clark facetiously proposed that Bethel adopt Daylight time all the year round, but had no support. F. E. Russell made the motion that Bethel cling to standard time, which finally carried. All the speakers agreed that the town should adopt one time or the other, except Hugh Thurston, who averred he would run his mill and blow his whistle when he pleased, regardless.

GOINGS ON IN MAINE

The eyes of all Maine as well as the rest of the world were turned to Washington this week. The inauguration of a new President is a way of great importance. It is particularly so to Maine this year due to the part that the state of Maine played in electing President Roosevelt. When Maine, normally Republican State, voted Democratic last September, it immediately taken, by the Republican forces, to mean that the state of the country was ready for a change of leadership as well. Maine goes, so goes the nation. Sometimes it does, and sometimes it doesn't—but in the last election the Nation went as Maine led. The Democratic National Committee has not been backward in giving Maine credit. Governor Brann's party, consisting of four military aides and 17 other Democrats, left Portland last Friday for Washington to attend the inauguration. Others in Governor's party besides his military aides included Charles A. Bates of Portland (the father of the late Governor as a Lieutenant Commander on his staff); E. P. M. Bangor; Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chase of Barre, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Tupper of Rockland, Mrs. Hope Buxton of Augusta. Governor of Maine was accorded special honor at the inauguration rode in the first section in the inaugural parade. After the inauguration, Governor Brann presided at the presidential hunting and license ever issued by the state. It was a handsome document, artistically printed in green and black on parchment.

And at the State House, many things happened. Long ago, some smart legislators and out that when one could get some pet scheme through using new tax money, the price to do would be to incorporate the bill a provision that the money from it should go toward education. And then some might otherwise be as a jellyfish would have the usual spontaneous support of those interested in education, the Department of Education, Teacher Associations, superintendents and principals. It had to see how this was. Next to highways, it is the money to run the education of Maine than for any other department. And that is proper to a certain limit. And it is reached when new sources of revenue are sought to cover the growing costs of the schools beyond the high school. There are no jobs for graduates for the past three years. A surplus of graduates every June. I am not the one who is wondering if it is for a cut in our expenditure on education. Representative one of the youngest members of the House, introduced a bill provides for a committee to make a survey of all State and all State subsidies, including the Unemployment, and see what curbs can be made, including on salaries, tuition and allied things. A good many legislators feel that such investigation would do no harm might result in saving the state of Maine a large amount of money.

On the other day, when Representative Walker's bill, for a cut on tobacco came up before the committee for a hearing, only persons to appear in it were those connected with the Education Department, because

And at the State House this week, many things happened. Not long ago, some smart legislator and out that when one couldn't get some pet scheme through for raising new tax money, the proper way to do would be to incorporate the bill a provision that the revenue from it should go towards education. And then some bill might otherwise be as weak as jellyfish would have the united spontaneous support of all those interested in education, such as the Department of Education, Parent-Teacher Associations, school superintendents and principals. It's hard to see how this works, why. Next to highways, it takes more money to run the education of Maine than for any other department. And that is proper to a certain limit. And that it is reached when new sources of revenue are sought to create overlapping jobs, or to maintain schools beyond the high school, for which there are no jobs for the graduates for the past three years, a surplus of graduates piling every June. I am not the only one who is wondering if it is not time for a cut in our expenditures for education. Representative Leach, one of the youngest members of the House, introduced a bill which provides for a committee of five to make a survey of all State funded and all State subsidized schools, including the University of Maine, and see what curtailments can be made, including reduction of salaries, tuition and other allied things. A good many of the legislators feel that such an investigation would do no harm, might result in saving the taxpayers of Maine a large amount of money.

On other day, when Representative Walker's bill, for a tax on tobacco came up before committee for a hearing, about only persons to appear in favor of it were those connected with Education Department, because the bill provided that the revenue should go to the State School Fund. Opposed to the bill were the retail and wholesale merchants. They said, "it would be difficult to collect"—"would not return the expected revenue"—"would cause bootlegging of tobacco"—"would penalize the honest dealer and promote dishonesty and divert trade from local merchants to out-of-state channels." Representative Walker is also trying to get a bill through which would provide that women pay a poll tax, the same as men. The lady Representative from Bangor, Representative Martin, introduced this bill, but Representative Walker attached an amendment to it, which provided that the poll-tax money shall go to education or a special school fund. He did this, he told the committee, to "soften the blow." There have been three measures proposed thus far setting up a constitutional convention to consider Federal Prohibition Amendment.

On Saturday of last week, things about the State House were thrown into more or less of a turmoil over the orders from Governor Brann and State Bank Commissioner Annis, closing all State of Maine banks for a period of several days. This action was taken in cooperation with action taken by President Roosevelt, immediately on assuming his office, by which he declared a Bank Holiday for all the banks of the country until Friday morning. During all the depression was not brought about by any matter that had to do with the condition of the banks in the State of Maine. During all the depression of the past three years, Maine has had only two bank failures, while some of the Central and Western States have witnessed the failure of scores of their banks in a single week. Some action had to be taken to cure that situation in these States, and the State of Michigan was the first to declare a Bank Holiday. Some of the other States were considering a like action, and it is not hard to realize the result of such an action if some of the States declared a general bank holiday, and others did not. People are naturally easily alarmed about anything that has to do with their banks these days; too easily alarmed, particularly in Maine and other Eastern States, where the banks are comparatively safe and sound; so to prevent any unwarranted action on the part of the people that might be disastrous to sound banks, a general bank holiday was declared by the President and all the State Governors. The banks will all open up shortly, possibly this week; and they will be even safer and sounder than they were before, because they will be backed by the State, and possibly, the national government. They will be as safe and sound as a State or Government bond—put your money in your bank and forget to worry. It is time to think of something else anyway—we have a new Government, a new deal—get behind it, with confidence—and besides, Spring is near!

COLBY COLLEGE NEWS

Kathryn A. Herrick, '35, of Bethel was toastmistress at the annual initiation banquet of the Delta Delta Sorority which was recently held at Colby College. The Deputation Team, composed of Bishop Dallas of the Episcopal Church of New Hampshire, Professor Gilles, mental hygienist of the Newton Theological Seminary, and Robert Fay of Christ Church, Cambridge, which recently visited the Colby College campus, was received with favorable interest by the students which indicates that the student body of Colby realizes the seriousness of the religious problems confronting it.

WHY

Threat of Chestnut Blight Is Less Marked

Some forest specialists think that the tide has turned and that the chestnut blight has already done its worst.
They believe that the blight has been checked and that the remainder of our chestnuts may be saved. The passing of the chestnut would be of grave concern to the tanning industry, because it is from this tree that tannin is obtained. Forcibly the impending disaster the government some years ago sought to discover in China, the supposed home of the chestnut blight, some species of chestnut resistant, if not immune, to the disease.

This experiment was successful in a degree. Several large consignments of nuts from resistant trees were brought over from China and many trees grown and distributed. Some of these trees were planted in the midst of trees which had been killed by the blight. The new trees, some of them now more than twelve years old, have withstood the blight admirably. It is hoped that it will not be necessary to introduce these trees generally throughout the country and that the remainder of our stand of chestnut trees can be saved; but should the blight continue its ravages indefinitely the country can be thankful that the government had foresight enough years ago to take precautions against the disaster.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why Apes and Monkeys Go in Fear of Snakes

The apes and monkeys generally, according to big game hunters, have a great fear of snakes. A sound resulting that of the snake will clear the jungle. Only two of the tribes do not have a terrible fear of snakes. The reason for this, of course, is that snake bite in most places is fatal to monkeys and apes.
The Barbary ape and the Pilgrim monkey do not fear snakes, because there are none in their habitats.

In one other situation the apes seem to overcome this extreme fear—when they live in regions where the wild snakes are abundant. This doughty creature regards snakes as prized delicacies and readily eliminates them in the terrain over which he roams.
The monkeys or other apes apparently note this carefully, for in such regions they become very bold in the face of snakes and sometimes even kill them with sticks and stones.

Why March 17 Celebration

March 17 is the traditional day on which St. Patrick died. Many people erroneously suppose it to be the anniversary of the birth of the Apostle of Ireland. It is his feast day, not birthday. There has been much controversy as to when and where St. Patrick was born. The place of his birth is variously supposed to be in Scotland, England, and France. His birth is supposed to have occurred about 373 A. D., and his death in Ireland about 433 A. D., which would make him one hundred and six years of age when he died. Although St. Patrick was not canonized and proclaimed a saint in Rome, he has always been venerated as the chief saint of the Irish church and has been indirectly recognized as a saint by the Church of Rome itself.

Why Horses Shy

Horses often shy but donkeys rarely take fright in this way. The ancestors of the horse wandered over plains where every bush might conceal an enemy. The life of a horse must often have been saved by its ability to start back or jump to one side. Donkeys descended from creatures that lived in hills, and this makes them slow and surefooted. In hilly countries where wide views can be obtained surprise attacks from enemies are not so likely as on the plains; and sudden starts, where the foothold is not too sure, might prove highly dangerous.

Why Ivy Lives in Water

The bureau of plant industry says that ivy planted in water gets its sustenance from the air, the water, and from the stored up material in the plant itself. Ivy planted in water will not continue to grow indefinitely. It will, however, under favorable conditions thrive for quite a while, the length of time depending upon how much plant food there is in the plant and in the water.

sion begins its campaign for advertising Maine, Monday. The story of Maine's recreational attractions is conducted for the purpose of bring-night of January 25th.

Gould Defeats So. Paris 34-29

In the semi-final match Gould Academy defeated South Paris for the third time this season. It was a hard fought battle with the Paris outfit always within striking distance. The winners played nearly the whole game without the services of Vall due to three personal fouls shortly after the game began. Browne and Lane led the scoring for Gould with nine and ten points apiece. Their steadiness in this game, along with Allen's fine assistance, kept the Bethel outfit out in front. Martinson did yeomanlike work after replacing McNally.

For South Paris, Stiles, left forward, played a fine game dropping six baskets for twelve points. Brown, South Paris right forward, continually broke through the front line defense by his quick breaks on the dribble which kept Gould always in hot water.

Norway won the second semi-final by defeating a fast Hallowell team 37-23, thereby gaining the right to play Gould for the coveted trophy.

Gould Wins Trophy 25-24

In the most beautifully played game of the tournament, Gould Academy and Norway battled on even terms until the final period, when Gould rallied to gain a coveted lead which they managed to hold until the final whistle.

Again it was the smooth play, clever ball handling, and almost perfect defensive tactics of the Blue and Gold that turned the trick on the defending champions from Norway. Jimmy Cole's experience taught him that it's almost useless to try to go thru the Gould defense, so the Norway outfit began early in the game to toss long shots, but by clever shifting and quick action Browne and Vall hurried or broke up these long shots to such extent that not many were successful. Jackson scored four baskets for Norway, because of his height he simply tipped in the ball.

LANE AND BROWNE HONORED ON ALL TOURNAMENT TEAM

HALLOWELL PLACES TWO MEN AND NORWAY ONE

Captain Lane of Gould's victorious cage outfit impressed Lewis-ton's sports writers from the first game to the finish with his fine defensive play as well as his well timed breaks for the basket. He was honored with the right guard position which he justly deserves. No one has trained more faithfully, worked harder, or cooperated better than the Captain of this year's team. His honors have been well earned.

"Bud" Browne, veteran of two seasons' play and chief ball carrier of the team, was the second Gould player to be honored on the All Tournament Team. Browne led the team in scoring with 27 points for the three games. However, the judges were impressed with the smoothness of his play and his ball carrying ability. His team mates have confidence in him and depend upon him to pass them to victory. He also deserves his honors because of his faithfulness and earnestness to do the best for his team.

Hallowell High School, winner of the consolation game, placed two men on the Mythical Quint. Thomas, high scoring forward of the tourney, was placed opposite Browne, while Leclair was given the center berth. Frost, star Norway guard, was placed opposite Lane.

Honorable mention was given the following:
Forwards—Brown and Stiles of South Paris.
Centers—Jackson of Norway and House of Winthrop.
Guard—Maxim of Winthrop.

after it rolled from the rim of the basket.

Every man on the Gould team played beautiful basketball and deserves much praise. Too much credit cannot be given Martinson, who played one of the best guard games of the entire tournament. His work on the defense and his ability to take the ball high in the air off the backboard was a feature of the game. He played the entire final game and his work had much to do with Gould's championship.

Vall, who played only about one quarter of the game in the afternoon due to four personal fouls, was in much better physical condition than the rest of his mates in the evening affair. His fitness proved the saving of Gould as his three baskets in the last half kept Gould out in front.

Gould fans and team were proud to carry home the beautiful trophy which will go into Gould's growing collection. Each member of the team, manager, and coach, received a gold basketball trophy.

Gould Academy Notes

The name of Kathryn Herrick, Gould '31, appears on the Dean's list published last week at Colby College. Miss Herrick is now a sophomore at Colby and has maintained especially high scholastic rating in all her college work.

Declamations were given last Friday by the following students: Alteen Bemis, Arthur Hill, Arthur Gilbert, Ernestine Bean, Elizabeth Bean, Mary Bean, Martha Brown, Bessie Bartlett, Albert Juddkins, Ruth Aublin, Betty Edwards, Howard Thurston, Clifton Jackson, Frances Morrill.

Gould's three tournament victories plus the win over Mexico on Wednesday marked four consecutive victories for the local team in four days. These games, coming as they did at the end of a sixteen game schedule, gave ample proof of the stamina and will-to-win spirit of the Gould players.

To Morris Vall, diminutive forward, goes a great deal of credit for aiding Gould to defeat the defending champions, Norway High School, in the tourney finals. Vall slipped in four field goals and two fouls for a total of 10 points and high point score of the championship game.

Another youngster, Henry Martinson, played like a veteran throughout the final game. Time after time this plucky lad, leaping high in the air, rescued the ball in dangerous opponent's territory, and sent the sphere on a fast offensive for the Gould basket.

In the opinion of more than one basketball critic, Stan Allen deserved a place on the all-tournament squad. One sports writer gave generous praise to the naturalness with which Stan handled the center berth, adding that his all around play left little to be desired.

The fact that basketball is, after all, a game of fundamentals, was proved by the smoothness and perfection with which the Gould players passed, pivoted, dribbled, and shot. The Blue and Gold far outclassed all the other tournament teams in well perfected basketball technique, which, by the way, spelled the difference between being tourney champions and simply tourney contenders.

We wonder how it feels to wear a gold basketball. Well, ask some of the Gould girls!

The following Gould trackmen will enter the Bowdoin Interscholastic Track Meet held at Brunswick, Saturday, March 11: Traf-ton Bartlett, Norris Brown, Douglas Daniels, Arthur Hill, and John Thorpe. Over 15 schools, representing the cream of high school tracksters from Maine and Massachusetts, are entered in Gould's division. The small number of men on the Gould team limits its competition somewhat, a 280 yard relay being its principal event, although entries will be made in the shot put, high jump, 40 yd. dash, 300 yd. dash, and broad jump. The team will be accompanied on the trip by Coach Fossett.

The Senior Girls basketball team won the interclass championship at Gould Academy with a total of nine points, closely followed by the Freshman lassies with eight and the Junior sextette with seven, while the Sophomore squad failed to place in the totals. The last games of the league were played in the William Bingham Gymnasium last Wednesday afternoon when the Juniors defeated the champion Senior team 30-23. The Freshman lassies turned loose all their youthful knowledge of basketball with a spirited offense which brought them a well deserved 32-5 victory over the somewhat surprised Sophomores.

TWO-MINUTE SERMON

(By REV. GEORGE HENRY)

CHILDREN ALL

When you were a boy you loved to build block houses. One day you piled the blocks higher than ever before and you were delighted, for a moment. Then a breeze came in at the door and your block house tumbled down, and you cried over it. When you were a little older you gathered together some boards and a few boxes and built yourself a shack, got inside and closed the door. You looked up and saw the blue sky shining through a crack. You got another board and closed the opening. Inside again and you were completely shut in. It was great. But some bigger boys came and pushed the shack over. When you became a man you still struggled to build things and you still continue to lose them and make your life miserable over things. What does it all mean? Simply that we are just overgrown children and have yet to learn that the things most lasting and satisfying and most worth while are spiritual rather than material.

BETHEL REPORTED AS RICHEST TOWN IN MAINE

Bethel took first honors as the richest town in Maine, judged by deposits in the Bethel Savings Bank in 1932. Figured in the same way the second, third, fourth and fifth places are taken by Farmington, Dover-Foxcroft, Norway and Machias, respectively.

MILTON

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

March 5, Cold and clear. Last Sunday, Feb. 26, we recorded a squall in the late afternoon. Well, it has been squalling ever since.
Rain, snow and sleet—high wind—gloomy days and days with sunshine. A conglomeration of weather conditions.

Via radio, we attended the inaugural ceremonies, advantageously saw the inaugural parade to the White House, and at 11:45 p. m., March 4, returned from the inaugural ball. Just perfectly happy in having witnessed one of the most colorful days in United States history.

An elderly gentleman, Mr. Johnson, who for several years has been making his home with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Perham in Perkins Valley, passed away from this life on March 2. He will be greatly missed by friends and relatives.

A large number of men from South Woodstock attended the 44
Class Sunday morning at West Paris. These meetings are very interesting.

Franklin Grange furnished one of her best town meeting dinners at noon March 6 to an appreciative hungry crowd.

Maurice Benson of Benson Bros. has a job lot of 200 cords of birch to move for Penley Bros. of West Paris.

The mills were all closed on Monday so that the operatives could have the privilege of attending town meeting.

The Kennison girl who has been detained at the C. M. G. Hospital, Lewiston, with a run of scarlet fever following an appendicitis operation is convalescing and is expected to return to her home on Curtis Hill this week.

Mrs. Mary Hendrickson is preparing a program which will be given by her school in the near future.

South Woodstock ladies are devoting several days this week to social affairs. Monday, March 6, town meeting. Tuesday, Pomona Grange at West Paris. Wednesday, Willing Workers meeting at Mrs.
Cora Andrews. After that there are the books and papers to be read, telephone calls to be made, company entertained, all the week end cooking to be done, and preparations for church services March 12.

Mrs. Maud Benson, practical nurse of Perkins Valley, was called to West Paris Monday to assist in caring for Henry Elfield, who had a severe shock March 2.

Mrs. Fannie Perham, R. N., is caring for Mrs. Guy Emery and baby at Locke Mills. At last reports the baby was very ill.

In a measure life is what we make it. We can rise from our beds in the morning with the resolution firmly made that we will as far as lay in our power make this the best day of our lives or we can on the other hand decide that this is going to be a most wretched day of living. Who is going to make these days the best or worst day? My dear friends, it is you and I say we hope and pray for the best. Our days will be better while the worst will only be worse by our having helped make them so. When things look dark try and help yourself and others by trying to appear cheerful. It will help others to bear the burdens of this world, and ultimately help out body and mind for that life of usefulness which each and every one is expected to fulfill.

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY 4-H CLUB

The Happy-Go-Lucky 4-H Club met with their leader, Barbara Miller, with eight members and one visitor. The meeting consisted of Club Song, Club Pledge, and flag salute. The members who didn't bring their sewing put a jig-saw puzzle together. The others worked on pillow cases or bureau scarfs.

Not All Forms of Law Procedure Are Alike

Under all forms of criminal jurisprudence based on Anglo-Saxon law, the burden is on the prosecution to prove its charge. American and British laws are based on this, with some local exceptions in Scotland and Canada. Most of continental Europe and Latin America base their systems on the old Roman law, which presumes a prisoner innocent until the prosecution has made out a substantial case against him and then presumes him guilty until he has proved his innocence. Scottish legal procedure differs from the English in many ways. The sources of the old Scots law were the feudal system and the Roman law, the latter usually acquired by French universities and modified by French ideas. According to Henderson and Watt's "Scotland of Today," "The procedure reminds rather of France than of England." It goes on to describe how an accused person is questioned privately by the prosecutor before the sheriff and his answers are put into the form of a declaration, which he is called on to sign and which is later used as evidence. Besides the two verdicts of "Guilty" and "Not Guilty," there is one of "Not Proven," which gives the prisoner the benefit of the doubt and acquits him unless further evidence justifies a reopening of the case.

Masonic Order Traced to Ancient Jerusalem

Tradition carries the Masonic order back to the building of the temple at Jerusalem, with King Solomon as the first grand master. The best authorities are agreed, however, that modern masonry is an outgrowth of the guilds or associations of builders who labored on the great cathedrals and other works of the Middle Ages. Their skill and the often transient character of their employment bound them in fellowship, while the necessity and demand for them gave them prosperity and privileges beyond those of most other classes of workmen. Ultimately persons, not actually connected with building were admitted to membership, and when steps were taken in England in 1663 to put the fraternity on a permanent basis it was no longer confined to operating masons.

Music for the Blind

Dr. Alexander Reuss says: "If we should place the same piece in ordinary music and in Braille side by side no one would at first glance recognize them as signifying the same thing, the appearance is so different. The sense impression of an ascending or descending melody through higher or lower written notes, whose difference is shown by lines or spaces, is not created in music for the blind; here we are dealing with the entirely different form of presentation. Music is pictured for the seeing in the rise and fall of the melody, while music for the blind must re-acta pictures in Braille music, although time signatures and key as well as metronome time and tempo are indicated at the beginning of the piece, crescendo and decrescendo signs, ties, accents and slurs are not written over the notes, but introduced into the musical text."

"Conscience Funds"

The conscience fund of the United States treasury was opened with a contribution of $5 in 1811. Money received for this fund is not carried on the books of the Treasury department as such, but is listed as miscellaneous receipts. The amounts sent in range from 2 cents from a person who failed to put a stamp on a letter when mailed to several thousand dollars from persons who consigned goods into the United States without paying import duty. Usually the same sent are small. No special use is made of the money. It simply goes into the general funds of the department.

The Best Way Out

A stout woman wedged into a crowded street car was having difficulty in getting into her tightly-buttoned jacket pocket to extract her fare.

"Madam," said a man next to her, during her fruitless struggles, "let me pay your fare."

She protested rather indignantly. "My only reason for wishing to do so," he said, "is that you've undoubtedly suspended three times trying to get into your pockets."—Imp. Trade Journal.

Let's All Issue Scrip!

Judge Russell suggests that since banks are talking of issuing scrip on the strength of assets the poor man ought to be allowed to issue scrip on the strength of their muscles (those being their assets). But Judge, the bank assets are supposed to be frozen! Are the muscles in that condition to? We have thought some people's were a bit paralyzed but hadn't thought of them being frozen.

Winter, Walking, and Roads

Winter has hit Bethel at last. Over a foot of snow in less than a week. We have a chance to admire the efficiency of our snow removal. Also the plow that is supposed to scrape the sidewalks. It needs a heavy man to ride on it or else a whole lot more ballast so it might get within three inches of the bottom instead of careening along on top. Ice made nice walking Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Sand seems to be at a premium on Bethel walks this year. Bethelites are getting as expert as contortionists in saving themselves a fall. Sunday and Monday saw the town plows flitting hither and yon to break out small drifts that people might get in to town meeting. Those small drifts are result of false economy in not buying and putting up snow fence at strategic places. It costs money to send two men and a plow four or five miles to break through a few feet of snow. But some people don't realize it.

Who Will Vote For A Dump!

In spite of the fact that it's not on the warrant the matter of a town dump can be brought up under "other legal business." It ought to be. The money required to support such a proposition is small in comparison with the sanitary conditions which arise from not having one, and in comparison with the beauty of what we are told is the "richest town in Maine" for its size. It hardly seems that anyone could conscientiously vote against such a project.

Temporarily the banks are closed and we are required to use real money instead of slips of paper to buy necessities. It shows what an important part (too important say some) our banks fill in our national life.
